President States Railroad Legislation Is the Vital Issue.

WILL CALL EXTRA SESSION.

If Congress Does Not Pass Acts Before March 4, Other Opportunities Will Be Afforded for Work.

Washington, Jan. 11.-President Roosevelt continued to-day his conferences with members of Congress on the subject of tariff revision, and of legislation providing for an increase of the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission. One statement, which stands out almost with the prominence of an official announcement, is that, unless Congress, at the present session, should enact legislation looking to a regulation of railroad freight rater, an extraordinary session of the Fifty-ninth Congress will be called by the President to deal with that problem. It can be said that the President regards the interstate commerce question as the paramount issue now before the American

At the conference last Saturday he informed those whom he had summoned into consultation, that, in his judgment, the question of railroad freight rates was far more important than that of the tariff, and that, while he desired a readfustment of the existing customs duties. he would not permit any radical differences in the Republican party on that question. He said definitely that he would call an extraordinaray session of Congress to consider interstate commerce legislation unless definite action was taken by Con-gress on the subject at the present ses-sion.

ISSUE IS RATES. At that session, he hoped, tariff revision to the extent he had indicated might be accomplished, but he made it perfectly clear that in his mind the overshadowing issue was that of railread freight rates.

issue was that of railroad freight rates.

In a talk to-day with Speaker Cannon, who is recognized as being opposes at this time to any revision of the tariff, the President reiterated his statement made at Saturday's conference, that, while he desired action on the question, he was willing to abide by the judgment of the Republican leaders in Congress, as he regarded the tariff matter as one which the chosen representatives of the American people should determine.

He indicated, in so many words, that, while fifty years hence, practically nobody would be able to say whether the tariff duties on any given article at this time were 56 per cent ad valorem or 5 per cent ad valorem, and nobody would care anything about what the duties were, the interstate commerce question involved a principle dear to every right-thinking and right-minded American, precisely as the whole matter of dealing with corporations involves a principle, and he would fight for that principle with all the power that in him thes.

The President corroborated to-day the statement attributed to him that the tariff

Among others who spoke were E. W. Stephens, Walter Williams and L. T. Searcy of Columbia, Doctor J. C. Whitten of the Missouri Agricultural College; of the Missouri Agricultural Conego,
George B. Ellis, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, and W. B. Grozeclose general traffic agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway.
In his spech, Mr. Ellis proposed a plen for taxather which may be acted on before the adjournment of the convention.
He spoke in part, as follows:

"We have thousands of miles of wellgraced roads, but they will not answer We have thousands of miles of well-graded roads, but they will not answer for heavy traffic. Of the 12500 miles of roads in Missouri only I per cent is permanently employed. Ninety per cent of the traffic of the State is carried on over 10 per cent of these roads. The problem that confronts us is to improve permanently this 10 per cent.

To accomplish this two factors are essential expert technical knewledge of road building and ample means to bring it into building and ample means to bring it into action. The State should have a highway ection. The State should pay supervision over superintendent, to have supervision over the appioniment and appropriation of funds.

"Each county should have a road supervisor, skilled in road making, under the direction of the county court. We need a department of road entineering in the state. University, Add a tax of 10 cents to every hundred of assessed property in the State, and the average Missouri farm of 10 acres would pay a tax of $1.50 a year for road building. Such a tax would produce $1.25 000, enough to make $00 miles of permanent roads." of permanent roads."

Mr. Ellis further stated that, with a total annual assessment of $500 on the average farm of 120 acres, sufficient funds would be raised in twelve years to improve permanently 10 per cent of the Missouri roads.
